Q13. If you consider the Plan Strategy to be sound and wish to support the Plan Strategy, please set out your comments below:

Reasons for support:

I believe the strategy for more varied type of housing is needed. I also believe that different housing types should not only be left to the decisions of developers as developers will always look at the profitable side of housing. The reuse of existing buildings in larger houses where younger and older people can live along side each other independently should be encouraged. At the moment this is not the case and is not encouraged by the planning service. This would mean older people will feel safe and also can remain in there own homes for longer into old age. Planning policies in the future should encourage and accommodate the use of larger houses being subdivide into two good size properties. Developers are doing this all the time with subdividing lager houses into apartments.
